

Crawford GTS[®] Provides Reliability, Expertise to Agriculture Industry

Agriculture employs more than 1.3 billion people worldwide—close to 40 percent of the global workforce. It is big business, to say the least. Sometimes this industry can be downright unpredictable. Drought. Flood. Wildfires. Livestock illness. Crop devastation.

What is predictable, however, is that [Crawford Global Technical Services[®]](#) provides much-needed help when crops are lost, animals diseased, products recalled, or Mother Nature wreaks havoc.

The GTS™ Agriculture and Food group evaluates and assesses agribusiness damages under extreme conditions—no matter the loss size or scope. Crawford GTS[®] employs a global team of experts who dedicate their careers to agribusiness, and these experts have helped numerous clients meet various liability issues and risk management needs.

The ability to handle large food industry claims requires an understanding of the nuances and the impact of food and drug regulation, manufacturing, consumer risk and liability, distribution, and transportation. Our team has deep and broad experience managing and integrating the diverse needs of negotiation, consolidation and mediation of claims for parties on both sides of the table.

Our expertise covers:

- Agricultural pollution
- Business interruption
- Contamination, E. coli and product recall, and spoilage
- Dairy operations
- Formula and patent infringement and liability
- Liability waivers in hunting, farm, and equine
- Loose livestock legalities and liabilities
- Loss control and farm safety
- New crop trends and risk revenue products
- Truckers insurance

The Agriculture and Food industry group serves:

- Aquaculture
- Cattle ranches
- Citrus growers
- Cotton growers
- Distributors
- Estate farms
- Family farms and ranches
- Grain and field crop growers
- Horse farms, including equine mortality
- Large commercial growers and packers of agricultural products
- Manufacturers
- Wholesale nurseries
- Wineries and vineyards
